Right.

The very first instance of this that was immediately obvious is the change in the site name from Anaconda Copper Mine to Anaconda Copper Mine Superfund Site.

We have to stick with the PP site name that we all agreed upon.

There are many other initial observations which I will point out when I submit my comments to you.

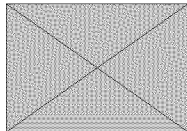

It just seemed to me that CBI went back to some other documents besides the PP to draft the ROD, as there are many inconsistencies in the two docs.

I really hate to take my time having to go back to the PP and point out every one of these, when I had hoped a blanket comment might relieve some of that editorial requirement.

Thanks,

Definitely can't have it conflict with PP. Can expand from PP though.

I completely understand and agree, but it can't depart from the PP!

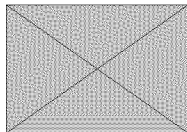

I guess I will just have to point out the many instances of this individually with my comments, rather than making a blanket statement.

Thanks,

Jeryl

The PP is much more general, the ROD is supposed to have more details in it.

Thanks, Dante.

The one thing I notice immediately in Section 2 is that the wording, phrasing, descriptions of the site and agreements is all different from the PP. We need to follow the PP exactly, not vary it. (site name is first of many examples of this.)

So, my overarching comment to CBI for now is, go back to the drawing board, and mirror the PP language and facts.

I will be making significant progress on this today, and will get you what I have by COB, but I may have additional specific comments still coming in tomorrow before COB.

Thanks,

Jeryl
